Introduction

In today's digital world, music streaming platforms have become an essential part of daily entertainment. Spotify is one of the most popular music streaming services, offering millions of songs and playlists to users worldwide.

Manually collecting information from large playlists is time-consuming and inefficient. To overcome this challenge, web scraping techniques can be used to automatically extract data from web pages.

In this project, Python is used to scrape data from a Spotify playlist webpage. The program sends requests to the webpage, parses the HTML content, extracts relevant information, and stores the collected data in a structured dataset.

The extracted data is saved in CSV format, making it easy to analyze and visualize. This project provides practical exposure to web scraping, data collection, data preprocessing, and data management using Python.

Problem Statement

Spotify Playlist Data Extraction Using Python

The objective of this project is to develop a Python-based web scraping application that extracts information from a Spotify playlist webpage. The application automatically retrieves the webpage content, parses the HTML structure using BeautifulSoup, and extracts relevant information such as song titles, artist names, and playlist details.

The extracted data is then organized into a structured format using the Pandas library and exported to a CSV file for storage and further analysis. This project demonstrates the practical implementation of web scraping techniques, data processing, and data management using Python.

The final dataset can be utilized for data analysis, visualization, reporting, and gaining insights into music trends and playlist composition.
